A. Personal Statement

During my PhD training in Prof. de la Pompa's lab, I analyzed the role of the deubiquitylase ubiquitin-specific protease USP8 in cardiovascular development and disease. Our research suggests that USP8 function in the heart is required for the metabolic maturation occurring during cardiac development. Besides, our research point to an essential role of USP8 in the onset of Cushing's Disease symptoms. Currently, we are preparing two manuscripts from this project for publication.
